Principal Simmons Says...

We have just 2 weeks until our winter vacation! We have a lot to accomplish in just 10 school days. On Monday, December 11, we begin NWEA middle of the year testing. It is vital that students are rested, on time to school and eat a healthy breakfast in order to ensure a successful testing session. We will be testing Monday, Tuesday and Thursday with make-up session following. As an incentive for students to do their very best, any student who meets their NWEA projected growth goal for math, reading and language arts will earn a day out of dress code the following week. With all the hard work and digital content achievements that I've witnessed in classrooms, I know we will have many who earn this reward.

During the last week before winter break, our PBIS Tier One team has planned events to acknowledge and reward students who have shown CORE consistently throughout term two. On Tuesday, December 19th, students who earned the high distinction of the CORE Plus Celebration will be going to Roller Cave. Wednesday the 20th, students who were nominated by their teachers for Gold Club will receive treats and a certificate during their lunch period. Finally, Thursday, December 21 will be our CORE Carnival. Students will use their hard earned CORE Cash to play games, buy treats, dance, color, have their face painted and much, much more during their related arts time. Thank you to all the parents who have signed up to volunteer for this event! We want all our children to celebrate their successes in and out of school and to know how important they are in this world. Kids matter !
