Tuesday, June 23, 2020, 7:00 PM

In attendance (via Zoom): Rob Stapleton, Katie Kumler, Beth Borland, Maribeth Cloud, Larry O'Bryan, Katie DeLisle, Kevin McCusker, Elizabeth Snook, Kevin Stitle, Joe Heidt, Mary Jo Woodside, Daren Beam, Elizabeth Kissel, Monsignor Schaedel, and Katee Schrage.

Katie Kumler called the meeting to order at 7:08 PM. Elizabeth Kissel opened the meeting with a prayer.

Katie Kumler thanked Beth Borland and Elizabeth Kissel for their wonderful service to the school and wished them the best of luck as they both move on next year.

The May minutes were unanimously approved.

Elizabeth Kissel reviewed the e-learning effectiveness parent survey. Overall, most families had a positive opinion of e-learning effectiveness and communication during the e-learning period. There were some aspects such as some of the specials that did not have as strong of feedback. The positive and negative feedback was discussed and will be a source for making changes in e-learning in the future.

Elizabeth Kissel also discussed the parent opinions on how and when to return to school. Most responses indicated a desire to fully return to "in person" schooling, with a minority of responses indicating support for partial or total e-learning.

Elizabeth Kissel reviewed the IN-CLASS guidance from the Indiana Department of Education and gave an overview of the planning process in preparing for the return to school.

The School Commission had an open discussion on diversity at Saint Luke. There was general support for taking more action to support a more diverse student body and faculty. Several options were discussed and will be considered moving forward.

The search committee gave an update on the principal search. Several strong candidates have been identified and a decision will be made soon.

Katie Kumler congratulated the incoming Executive Committee of Kevin McCusker, Larry O'Bryan, Rob Stapleton, and Mary Jo Woodside.

Monsignor closed the meeting with a prayer at 8:49 PM.

2.4 Did you feel the decision to discontinue the weekly St. Luke Catholic School Ram Page during this time period was appropriate, in lieu of the daily Morning Announcements?

202 responses

- No, the Ram Page should have been continued.
- Yes, we had more than enough information in the Morning Announcements.
- Decreasing the number of Ram Pages vs eliminating them would have struck a better balance.

- Increased Responsiveness to Questions
- “Overall was just fine...sometimes a little too much info/too wordy which makes the most important information tough to find.”
- “Actual current status. A sense of feeling of belonging beyond a birthday. Side note, prayers felt rushed.”
- “Wondering if there is a way to make participation in viewing morning announcements a mandatory activity as part of submitting attendance. Maybe you get a unique password everyday that you have to submit along with the attendance form to prove that you watched the announcements/read the newsletter/"attended" that day of school.”
- “Announcement of perfect attendance and Honor Roll at the end of the school year, etc.”

Primary Communications Related Feedback Gathered from Comments

- Consistent and Timely notification of learning plans
 - Communication of Assignments for the Week, consistently requested as better for working parents to plan
 - Equal consistent strong desire to NOT LOSE Daily Assignment Communication
 - Consistent communication of assignments desired (i.e. Assignments received early in AM the day of, late night before, etc.)
 - Integrate Friday “Assignments” Better
- Google Classroom Training and Communication
 - “Mark as Done” Button There were times across all our grades that the daily assignments and GC did not sync which was very frustrating for the kids.”
 - K transition did not work well
 - Give Parents Access
 - “I think some parent meetings/instructions for use would have been helpful, especially for the private message feature, and the Google Guardian option. Our son didn't realize that teachers had been sending him private messages, because initially the students did not have active email accounts or a central place to find messages (they'd appear within assignments he thought he had already completed, so it would have never occurred to him to check them again later). Mr. Fleming later alerted us to the Google Guardian option so we could get a daily digest of missing/incomplete work, which was very helpful. I think explaining all this to parents in advance before the kids start using Google Classroom would be good.”
- Communicate Missing Assignments to Parents
- Communicate Goals for Grade
- Training for Parents on Resources (i.e. Helping Students with Math)

Additional Feedback Gathered from Comments

- IA connections worked well,
- “Also the daily zoom was too much. Our daughter would be on a roll doing work and have to stop for the zoom. She would lose momentum and not want to finish her work for the day then. It was a struggle to get her back on track after the 1.5 hours-2hours on zoom. It was great having the optional zoom times, but the mandatory daily one was unnecessary. Weekly was plenty for our other kids’ grades.”
- “First Communion thoughts/plans from administration”
- Age of Students on Instagram – Consider when teachers asking students to follow
- “However, I did like how Kindergarten used the newsletters with the links.”
- “If we had to do this again I think 2nd grade and above should have an iPad as well so we can enable them a bit more. I would make it a schedule with zoom lessons the follow the curriculum and more ungraded quizzes to gauge understanding. More use of Alex and Mobymax for ability based learning, we lost all of that from my point of view.”

- Each Student Should Have an iPad
- Easier Availably to Locate Passwords (as parents are helping students)
- Need to be able to see student's work – not just grade – to help them learn
- “Now that everyone has some experience, add a book to read (maybe there's a service that SLS can be a member of) where kids can pick a book online and read as a "class" - to keep them reading, analyzing and engaging as a grade.”
- “Could have used a little more understanding about having to leave stuff at school & pick-"up.”
- “One suggestion may be to have a way for families to help one another out or support each other in a confidential but collaborative manner.”
- “Zoom meetings too chaotic to follow. Expectations of quality of work not clear for my son. Alternative communication other than zoom needed for kids who have trouble following zoom”.
- “I wish St. Luke would have continued grading the children and issued a report card. The kids worked really hard, still took tests and an evaluation of their efforts would have been appropriate. I also would like St. Luke to consider an assessment test prior to next school year for class assignments. I know some families worked incredibly hard to ensure that their kiddos do not fall behind while other families really struggled. The kids that are at the appropriate grade level should continue to advance and the kiddos that did not receive as much benefit from e-learning could perhaps be in a smaller group setting with more support (this way they continue to learn from the place they stopped but the rest of the class is not held back/or have to repeat the same subject matter).”
- “How will you measure students progress going forward given e learning? Will Standardized testing continue?”

Summary Recommendations

Don't make holistic changes to eLearning Program or Communications as implemented – it worked VERY well for the circumstances

- Specials did not work overall – needs a collaborative effort within Specials and with Homerooms
- Need for more interaction with teachers, “more live teaching”
- Streamline and Add Consistency with Key Processes:
 - More Training for Google Classroom – Then Use Consistently
 - More Education on Skills and Expectations for Students
 - Weekly and Daily Look at Assignments, Communicated as far in advance as possible
- “Review”/“Check In” to see if Expectations are Consistently Being Implemented Across Classrooms, Grade Levels
- Communicate in as far in advance as possible to staff so they can be prepared to support program implementation/changes ahead of parents receiving information
